Nevedac Prosthetic Centre was established by Padmashri Late Col DS Vohra in 1972. A pioneer in the field of Artificial Limbs in Asia, he had earlier founded the Artificial Limb Centre in Pune (the first such in Asia) after the Second World War. It was inaugurated by Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, first Prime Minister of India.

The Nevedac Prosthetic Centre as well as Col DS Vohra received many accolades for their dedicated and outstanding work in the cause of rehabilitation of the disabled. National and international awards including the Padmashri for Col Vohra and the Best Institution award for the Centre were given over the years by the President of India. The institution has aptly demonstrated and lived up to its motto 'THEY LIVE AGAIN' and 'Disability Is No More A Liability' and has rehabilitated over 65,000 physically challenged persons of all categories.
